what is the time frame between submitting a complete ASW application and actually receiving the number?	That depends on the volume. Currently, we are working on apps received around March. For CSCSW membership application level. Do we apply as an "associate" or "emeritus?"	Emeritus is for retired social workers. Associate is for those not yet licensed. If you are still a student, you should join at that level.

I'm still confused about the private practice questions, because I feel that they haven't been answered sufficiently and others seem confused too, so here are my questions: 1. Why does the 90 day rule not apply to working at a private practice? 2. Can I start working at a private practice as an MSW without my ASW number (as long as the agency is okay with it)? I realize I will not start accruing hours toward the LCSW until I get the BBS number, but I want to know anyway if it's okay to do that and start working at least, or do I have to wait two months or whatever until I get that BBS number? I hope that was clear. I appreciate clear answers to both those	You cannot work at a private practice without your ASW number within the 90 day rule. You must wait until you get your ASW number.
My employer does offer clinical supervision until after a year of employment, am I still able to apply for my number and accrue hours?	If you have met all the requirements to apply for an ASW number then yes apply.

Is the BBS working on a way for licensed social workers to be able travel/work in other states w/out having to continually apply for each state? I know nurses do this. Can't think of what it's called but it's something that states agree on so the professional doesn't have to get licensed in each state they have an opportunity to work.	Each state has their own rules/regulations regarding seeing clients in their state. We have no jurisdiction over clients in other states.
So grateful for this presentation. I work well with direction and have not had good direction before this. I am grateful for the comments of the new licensees. Congratulations to you both!
This has been wonderful, thank you!

Just to clarify, for the individual and psychotherapy hours to count they have to be face to face? what about clients we were not able to using zoom or face to face devices, how can those hours count?
